To Whom It May Concern,

Lauren Slyman is a talented young woman with a diverse portfolio of experience and strengths. Her unique blend of interests and choice of studies at University of Florida positions her to be a great asset to a company. I'm thrilled to see such a great opportunity that I believe will be a perfect fit for Lauren as well as for Viacom.

Through the years, I have had the pleasure of mentoring Lauren and am always impressed with her maturity and focus to have a career in business while also developing her passion to create music. I believe Lauren's creativity blended with her coursework in Information Technology is such a great combination and something I love to have in members of my team. Innovation and agility are important values in today's fast paced and competitive environment and are two values Lauren possesses.

Please feel free to reach out to me with any questions about Lauren. I wish you luck in your search and know you would be fortunate to have Lauren join you for the summer.

Kind regards,

Nicole Radil
